JAP ROYALTY ORDERED OUT TO STOP WAR

INP by Lester MacLellan

'Little Mr. Victory'—This chubby little infant, held by Nurse Eileen Resmini at Boston City Hospital, was abandoned by his mother on Boston Common while thousands of merrymakers nearby celebrated the Jap surrender. Taken to City Hospital, the infant was promptly named "Little Mr. Victory" and footprints were taken in an effort to discover if he was born in a hospital.

Tokyo Orders 'Cease Fire'

By Associated Press

Emperor Hirohito will send members of the imperial family to the various fighting fronts to assure that his orders to "cease fire" are carried out by the Japanese troops, the Japanese government said today in a message to Gen. MacArthur, which was recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

The message advised the Allied supreme commander the order ending hostilities had been issued as he directed and added that members of the imperial family would enforce it personally, although in some isolated instances it might take as long as 12 days.

The message, in English, estimated six days would be required to make the message entirely effective in China, eight days in Bougainville and 12 days in New Guinea and the Philippines.

The message expressed great embarrassment, but said it was "impossible for us to arrange for the flight of our representative on Aug. 17," as demanded by MacArthur, "due to scarcity of time."

"We will, however, proceed at once with the necessary preparations and notify Gen. MacArthur as to the date of the flight of such representative, which will take place as soon as possible," the message said.

The type of plane ordered by MacArthur to make the flight also was questioned. The Japanese explained they did not understand the designation and asked the Allied commander to repeat the entire message of instructions to them.

Several hours later, Gen. MacArthur announced officialy he had received the Japanese message. He immediatey sent a repy, but the contents were not made known.

Unofficial observers in Manila believe Japan's silence illustrates intense internal turmoil and desire to save as much face as possible from a hopeless situation.

These sources believe Tokyo will comply with MacArthur's orders at the last possible moment.

Despite Domei's broadcast denial of any disorders in Tokyo, there evidently is considerable chaos, even if hidden behind closed doors of top-ranking officials.

Hirohito's rescript accepting the Potsdam declaration illustrates considerable opposition to surrender. The cabinet change obviously disrupted the country's normal political life. This was further underlined by the relative delay in naming the new cabinet, despite the rank of premier-designate, Gen. Prince Naruhiko Higashi-kuni, cousin of the Emperor.

Ordinarily investiture of a new cabinet would precede the appointment of any mission bound for such important diplomatic undertaking, such as the envoys who are to meet MacArthur.

Jap officials throughout history were noted for prolonged delays in answering official documents. The principal reason for this is the sense of "face" they believe they gain by forcing the other party to wait, particularly if the incident is liable to be to Japan's disadvantage.

Jap officials are past masters at stalling, as was most painfully illustrated by their machinations preceding outbreak of the Pacific war.

In surrender, they would be consistent in attempting to gain the last measure of face. However, the fact they capitulated shows their policy has been definitely decided, and they are not apt to undertake any official action designed to bring more wrath upon their country.

This view is augmented by the Domei report of the Emperor's orders today to his forces to cease hostilities.

Truman Doubts Japs' Revenge

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Enactment of a peacetime military training program will be recommended by President Truman as soon as Congress reconvenes on Sept. 5.

Mr. Truman also:

1—Said the draft bill will continue to take young men to replace veterans in the occupation forces. (It's up to Congress to decide when to end selective service, he said.)

2—Expressed the opinion that the Japanese never will have a chance to obtain revenge for their defeat.

3—Proclaimed Sunday, Aug. 19, a day of prayer thanking God for victory and asking support and guidance in peace. (Story on Page 4.)

4—Called the full employment bill must legislation, now that millions soon will be jobless.

5—Announced he will call a conference for capital and labor as soon as Congress reassembles.

6—Said the War Labor Board will continue as long as it is needed.

7—Disclosed this government is discussing with the British a Jewish national state in Palestine.

8—Expressed hope Congress will co-operate in developing atomic energy for peacetime uses.

In his first peacetime news conference the President declared if Congress goes along the scientific discoveries which made possible the atomic bomb will be turned to the welfare and benefit of mankind.

Commenting on the situation in the Pacific since he announced Japanese acceptance of Allied peace terms, the President said:

The surrender will not be complete until 2,000,000 Japanese lay down their arms.

Gen. MacArthur will announce the signing of the surrender, which will take place at a point MacArthur designates.

There is no apparent necessity for dividing Japan into occupation zones although troops from all the Allies will be under MacArthur's command.

There has been no decision yet on combining the Army and Navy in peacetime, he said.

His declaration that Japan will have no chance to obtain revenge for its defeat came in response to a reporter's question.

The reporter said most Jap radio pronouncements since acceptance of the surrender terms

PRINCE NARUHIKO HIGASHI-KUNI
New Jap Prime Minister

3 Ministers Back in New Jap Cabinet

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16 (AP)—A member of the Japanese imperial household—taking over government reins for the first time in history—tentatively chose three members of the fallen Suzuki cabinet and a former wartime premier today to head a peacetime regime.

The Tokyo radio said unofficially Prince Fumimaro Konoye, premier when Japan began her war on China, had been named minister without portfolio.

The new Premier, Gen. Prince Naruhiko Higashi-Kuni, a cousin of the emperor, selected eight of his ministers, according to an English language broadcast.

Most prominent holdover from the cabinet of Premier Suzuki, which resigned when the emperor announced Japan's surrender, was Adm. Yonai, the navy minister.

Domei agency said the emperor "personally took the decision" to appoint Higashi-Kuni without consulting the elder statesmen, as has been customary.

U. S., Britain Plan Nation of Palestine

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (AP)—President Truman disclosed today this government is discussing with the British a Jewish national state in Palestine.

The President told a news conference the American view is that as many Jews should be let into Palestine as possible.

Chinese Report Yank Landing in Shanghai

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16 (INS)—A Chinese newspaper, according to Chungking radio, has reported that Americans have landed in the port city of Shanghai.

Nimitz, Aides To See Signing

GUAM, Aug. 16 (AP)—Fleet Adm. Nimitz has sent messages to Gen. Spaatz and Lt. Gen. Roy Geiger inviting them and their aides to be guests on his flagship at Japanese surrender ceremonies.

The invitation implied Adm. Nimitz would be present at the ceremonies for the United States and that the ceremony would take place aboard a warship, apparently a battleship.

A-Bomb Saved Million Yank Lives, Churchill Tells House

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

LONDON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Winston Churchill told Commons today the atomic bomb was responsible for the sudden ending of Japanese war and saved a million American and 250,000 British lives which would have been lost in invading the enemy's home islands.

Prime Minister Attlee said subsequently that the atomic bomb discovery would force reorganization "in the sphere of international relations."

"We have to realize that we are living in a new world, now that we have seen the atom, a new force, the consequences of which we find it difficult to grasp," said Attlee, who succeeded Churchill as Britain's first minister.

Churchill said Generalissimo Stalin promised to enter the Pacific war three months after the German surrender and the Russian intervention on Aug. 8, after the German collapse May 8, was "but another example of the fidelity and punctuality" of the Soviet Union.

He disclosed that he and President Truman made elaborate plans at Potsdam for "great battles and landings in Malaya, the Netherlands East Indies and in the homeland of Japan itself," not knowing how long Jap resistance would continue.

Churchill spoke as leader of the government's Conservative opposition, a position to which he was relegated by the July election.

Stalin was informed that "we contemplated using an explosive of incomparable power against Japan," he said.

"It is to this atomic bomb, more than any other factor, that we may ascribe the sudden and speedy ending of the war against Japan," said Churchill.

He told the House the secret of the devastating new weapon should not "at present be imparted to other nations in the interests of the common safety of the world."

"We were in the presence of a new factor in human affairs—powers which were irresistable," he said. "President Truman and I at Potsdam approved the military plans to unchain the dread forces."

The chunky, 70-year-old statesman declared "there are voices which assert that the (atomic) bomb should never have been used at all."

But, he added bluntly:

"I cannot associate myself with such ideas. Six years of total war have convinced most people that had the Germans or the Japanese discovered this new weapon they would have used it upon us to our complete destruction with the utmost alacrity."

Cheers sounded from both sides of the House.

Churchill asserted sharply: "I am surprised that very worthy people—but people who in most cases had no intention of proceeding to the Japanese front themselves—should adopt the position that, rather than throw this bomb, we should have sacrificed a million American and a quarter of a million British lives in the desperate battles and massacres of an invasion of Japan."

Japs Now Praise A-Bomb

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16 (AP)—The Japanese flow of condemnation of the Allies for development and use of the atomic bomb was replaced today by praise for the scientific genius which developed it.

The influential Tokyo newspaper, Yomiuri Hochi, in an article quoted by Radio Tokyo, said "rather than accuse those who used the fateful atomic bomb, it will be more Bushido-like to give due credit to the scientific superiority of those who were capable of producing such a weapon.

"It would be much to our good if we can accuse ourselves of being so incapable."

The transmission concluded:

"The Japanese must now learn to look into the face of reality. There is a reason for victory just as much as there are causes for defeat. We had failed to gauge our limitations and knew not enough of our adversary."

A-Bomb Praised to Churchmen

OXFORD, England, Aug. 16 (AP)—St. John Ervine, novelist and dramatist, today deplored what he called the "trash and twaddle" in arguments about atomic bombs.

"I would rather be killed by an atomic bomb than by a rusty bayonet thrust into my intestines," he told the Conference of Modern Churchmen.

"Let us be reasonable about this thing. Do not let us forget that two atomic bombs stopped the war, that vast multitudes of men and women have been saved from death and disease, and that the world is now able to begin a process of recovering much quicker than it might have done."

Bern Envoy 2d Big Jap Suicide

BERN, Aug. 16 (INS) — Swiss officials announced today Lt. Gen. Kiotomi Okamoto, chief of the Jaapnese military intelligence section in Switzerland, had committed suicide yesterday.

Before his death Okamoto cabled Emperor Hirohito his "hopes for a better future," and said the reason for taking his own life was his "military conscience."

Domei announced suicide of War Minister Korechika Anami yesterday.

Anami addressed a farewell "Poem of Apology" to Emperor Hirohito and wrote a note.

Anami said:

"With death I humbly beg the pardon of His Imperial Majesty for my great sin."

Reds Reject Chiang's Orders

CHUNGKING, Aug. 16 (AP)—Unofficial reports today said Chinese Communist troops, apparently bent upon seizing control of all key cities north of the Yellow river when the Japanese lay down their arms, had clashed with Central government guerrillas at several points near Tsingtao and Tientsin.

Chinese Communist leaders formally rejected today Chiang's order to remain at their present posts and take no independent action against the Japanese, saying the order was "definitely contrary to the interests of the Chinese nation."

Footprint Records May Identify Baby

For the first time in the history of the State, footprint records were searched today in hope of identifying "Little Mr. Victory," the chubby, two-week-old baby boy who was abandoned on Boston Common as thousands celebrated the return of peace.

Impressions of the boy's tiny feet were taken at City Hospital and sent to all hospitals in the Greater Boston area and throughout the State in hope that they would be found to compare with the footprint records of some newborn boy baby.

The unidentified infant, weighing about 11 pounds, has black hair and blue eyes and nurses at the hospital say he is thriving on their infant formula.

Young Mr. V. was dressed immaculately in a white dress, white slip, a pink bonnet and pink booties when his mother walked out on him. The mother was described as about 25, stylishly dressed in a gray suit. She walked up to Charles R. Startaro, 16, of Paris st., East Boston, in the Common, and asked him to mind the baby. She gave him $2.

"Just take care of him for me while I do an errand," she said. "I'll be back in about 20 minutes."

The 20 minutes stretched to 30, then to an hour. Charles felt sort of silly holding a new baby while all around him other boys and girls were laughing, singing, shouting and dancing at the news of victory. He was grateful when three Dorchester girls, Anna Dickman, of Norfolk st.; Rose Cohen, of Michigan ave., and Ethel Palminick, volunteered to share his nursemaid duties. When the mother failed to return, all four finally went to police.

Dr. James Manary, hospital superintendent, visited Mr. V. in the nursery this morning, and as the youngster cried lustily, the doctor pronounced him one of the most healthy and attractive infants the hospital ever has sheltered.

Heavy Buying In Food Stores

A different sort of impromptu celebrating broke out again in Boston this morning as soon as the food stores opened. Unlike the wild carnival street scenes of the past two nights, it was nevertheless intense and deeply enjoyed.

In huge help-yourself marts all over town, customers crowded in and triumphantly bought, point free, all the canned delicacies which have been denied them during the past three years due to costliness in blue points.

Scores of customers, as they filled their baskets with bottles of ketchup, canned fruits, tomatoes and corn, seemed to delight in tearing out their blue coupons and destroying them in full sight of the clerks.

One soldier, home on furlough, who fought through France and Germany, was shopping with his wife and getting a terrific kick out of being able to pick up any canned fruit he wanted.

"This is the beginning of peace," Pvt. Charles Costa of Quincy st., Dorchester, said with a big grin when unable to make up his mind between a can of pineapple or apricots for tonight's dessert, he calmly settled the issue by tossing both in his shopping basket.

Market managers marveled at the restraint most customers used in their purchases. They bought up a lot of cans but tried to take only one of each variety so as to leave some on the shelves for others.

Pears and peaches were the first exhausted as stocks were consistently low on these, due to heavy military purchases.

But stocks on such things as cherries, apricots and mixed fruits seemed ample to last out the day. All cans were still marked with the number of points formerly required for their purchase.

"Eighty points for pineapple—phooey!" said the father of a large family as he grabbed three cans along with a few of fruit cocktail. "My children have been hungering for this stuff. I'm a widower and the children aren't old enough to do any canning. Now we can have some decent desserts as well as a healthier diet."

Also rejoicing were trim, young housewives such as Mrs. Ruby Bearfield of Dillingham st., Dorchester, who was shopping with her tiny two-year-old daughter, Nancy.

"I quit my war job right away and now must learn to cook. The cans will help while I get the hang of it and I want to be a really good cook by the time my husband, John, gets back from the Pacific."

CHINA SIGNS CHARTER

CHUNGKING, (Thursday) Aug. 16 (AP)—The legislative Yuan today unanimously ratified the United Nations Charter,

Beacon Hill Puppy Is Hero in Fire

A puppy, all alone in a five-story Mt. Vernon st., Beacon Hill, apartment house, was credited with saving the building from complete destruction today when his frantic yelps attracted attention to smoke billowing from windows.

Foureen-year-old Louise Mandel, who lives next door to the burned building, heard the puppy barking and called her stepfather, Frank O'Leary, when she saw smoke. O'Leary notified the building owner to sound the alarm, then rescued the puppy from a second floor apartment.

Mrs. Andrew D. Wright and her daughter Jean, 18, occupants of the third floor returned home to see firemen subdue the blaze. Their apartment suffered serious damage. Owner of the puppy is Mrs. Edith Garland, wife of a serviceman.

Nylon Stockings Due on Market By Christmas

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (INS)—American women's legs will be more beautiful than ever before.

They'll be sheathed in stockings unsurpassed for sheeriness and beauty.

And the new stockings will be impervious to washings and snags and close-fitting, unlike the sagging wartime rayons.

These revelations came today from the hosiery industry which has been preparing for months for V-J Day and release of materials.

A word of caution was sounded by Roy E. Tillees, member of the post-war planning committee of the National Ass'n of Hosiery Manufacturers.

He said the new nylons probably won't be available until Christmas Eve at the earliest—possibly not before that grand and glorious New Year's Eve celebration.

What's more, no one knows now how many nylons will be on sale to each individual or exactly what the stockings will cost.

Tilles explained: "There's an OPA ceiling price of $1.55 to $1.85 a pair on nylons. Whether or not this will continue, is anybody's guess. As for the supply—well, we in the industry estimate it will be at least two years before it equals the demand."

Buenos Aires Police Clear Streets, 2 Dead

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 15 (INS)—Mounted police reserves swept through Buenos Aires early today with orders to clear the streets, following fresh disturbances, in which two persons were killed and at least 20 wounded.

Crowds paraded, carrying banners and shouting "Down with Peron." Vice-President Peron, considered the real power behind President Farrell, is a candidate for the presidency.

Man Leaps From Empire State Tower

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (INS)—An unidentified, red-haired man of about 35 plunged 1000 feet to death today from the 86th floor observation tower of the Empire State Building.

His body landed on 33d st., narrowly missing pedestrians and automobiles. Several thousand persons, observing the second day of the V-J holiday, witnessed the leap.

About 60 persons were on the platform when the man suddenly boosted himself onto the four-foot high retaining wall, built to forestall suicides, and sat there with his legs dangling over the 33d st. side.

Closing his eyes, he mumbled a prayer and then hurtled down. His body cleared the scaffolding on the 79th floor, erected after the bomber crashed into the building, and another roof below.

The man stood calmly in line with others to purchase a ticket to the tower and visited souvenir stands on the 86th floor before his leap.

Asia Surrender Terms Set

RANGOON, Aug. 16 (AP) — Southeast Asia Command Headquarters was making arrangements today to accept local surrenders of Jap commanders of Burma, Thailand, Malaya and the Netherlands East Indies.

One surrender condition, it was understood here, calls on the Jap commanders to hand over the installations intact or face the firing squad.

Mose immediate problem is the handling of Allied prisoners, of whom 75,000 are believed to be on Singapore island.

3 Flee as Stolen Car Overturns

Three occupants of a car which police say was stolen in Allston escaped death or serious injury today when it left the highway at the Norwood-Westwood line, rolled down a 10-foot embankment and landed on its side beside the New Haven railroad tracks.

Residents near the scene told Norwood police officers they noticed two men in sailor uniforms and a girl walk away from the wrecked machine. A girl's shoe was found in the car.

Police identified the owner as Julius Canner of 15 Parkvale ave., Allston.

Sunday Is U. S. Day of Prayer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Next Sunday has been set aside by President Truman as a day of prayer. Announcing the proclamation at a news conference, Mr. Truman remarked with a smile that after two days of national celebration he thought the prayer would be needed.

The proclamation said:

"The war lords of Japan and the Japanese armed forces have surrendered. They have surrendered unconditionally. Three months after victory in Europe victory has come in the East.

"The cruel war of aggression which Japan started eight years ago to spread the forces of evil over the Pacific has resulted in her total defeat.

"This is the end of the grandiose schemes of the dictators to enslave the peoples of the world, destroy their civilization, and institute a new era of darkness and degradation. This day is a new beginning in the history of freedom on this earth.

"Our global victory has come from the courage and stamina and spirit of free men and women united in determination to fight.

"It has come from the massive strength of arms and materials created by peace-loving peoples who knew that unless they won decency in the world would end.

"It has come from millions of peaceful citizens all over the world—turned soldiers almost overnight—who showed a ruthless enemy that they were not afraid to fight and to die, and that they knew how to win.

"It has come with the help of God, who was with us in the early days of adversity and disaster, and who has now brought us to this glorious day of triumph.

"Let us give thanks to Him, and remember that we have now dedicated ourselves to follow in His ways to a lasting and just peace and to a better world.

"Now, therefore, I, Harry S. Truman, President of the United States of America, do hereby appoint Sunday, Aug. 19, 1945, to be a day of prayer.

"I call upon the people of the United States, of all faiths, to unite in offering their thanks to God for the victory we have won, and in playin that He will support and guide us into the paths of peace.

"I also call upon my countrymen to dedicate this day of prayer to the memory of those who have given their lives to make possible our victory."

Urge Volunteer Army Abroad, End to Draft

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Senators are giving serious consideration to proposals for an all-volunteer Army of Occupation to enforce our terms on Japan and Germany.

The official decision to cut draft calls to 50,000 a month, confine inductions to men under 26, and release an estimated 7,000,000 from the armed services in the next year was pleasing to all the lawmakers, but it didn't go far enough for some.

Bills to halt the draft entirely will be introduced in both houses when Congress reconvenes Sept. 5. They have wide support.

Sen. Ferguson (R.) of Michigan told reporters he is not convinced boys of 18, who will form the bulk of conscripts under the curtailed draft calls, would make suitable occupation troops.

"A boy of 18 is a daredevil—and thank God he is," Ferguson said. "He's got to have action and things to do. This occupation is going to be a professional soldier's job. A professional soldier can get along with the least amount of drilling and enjoy life.

"I think we can get enough volunteers among older men to handle our occupation duties—a military police job, and what police force would hire men of 18?

"Let our fireballs stay back here."

Reds Drive Deep Into Manchuria

MOSCOW, Aug. 16 (AP)—Russian forces continued today to drive deeper into Manchuria where, a Soviet communique said last night, Jap troops still are offering resistance.

Front dispatches indicated Red Army mobile units were spreading out rapidly over hundreds of square miles of territory, with three main columns driving steadily toward the munitions and communications center of Harbin.

Nearest of the three columns advanced from the east, had taken the rail hub of Mutankiang, 165 miles from Harbin, and was pushing on to the west.

Driving Survey Ordered to Fix Insurance Rate

Survey of motoring under non-rationed gasoline was ordered today by Insurance Comr. Charles F. J. Harrington to determine compulsory automobile insurance rates for 1946.

So watch out, Mr. and Mrs. Driver—the miles you drive, the rate of speed and the accident record will tell the story.

"We make our rates on statistics and we have got to have those figures before we make new rates," Harrington said.

"Rates have to meet the costs of losses and expenses. Ordinarily, past experience represents a fairly resonable basis on which to go.

"If motorists do not drive like mad our modifications will be different than otherwise.

"I am givng consideration to a proper and reasonable method for the survey, with respect to hazards betwen limited and unlimited driving.

"With A, B and C ration driving we knew where we stood but without cards we have to devise the next best method to reach a conclusion. We must find out the number and severity of the accidents before determining the change in rates, if any."

El Fare Boost Plea Under 3-Way Fire

A three-way attack was launched today on the Boston Elevated's proposal to jump 5-cent fares to 7½ cents on zone rides on its buses, surface cars and trackless trolleys.

Elevated officials asserted that the increase, now awaiting approval by the OPA, was necessitated because of a prospective deficit in operating the system.

The announcement brought an immediate assertion from State Auditor Thomas J. Buckley that he would renew his demands for authority to audit the company's books, declaring there was "bound to be looseness" in any business which did not have an independent audit.

Rep. Philip McMorrow, of Dorchester, promised to demand that Gov. Tobin investigate the proposed increase, declaring that Greater Boston residents now pay 61 per cent of El deficits while "unnecessary" officials of the line draw "fabulous salaries" and stockholders are paid guaranteed dividends.

Rep. David M. Cleary, of Charlestown, demanded that the State Public Utilities Commission investigate the proposed fare jump, charging there was "something radically wrong with the El management" if it was anticipating a deficit while every transportation system in the country was making more money than at any time in history.

"Th records of the Boston Elevated should be open to the auditor of the Commonwealth," Buckley declared.

"The public should know what is going on because whenever there is a deficit, the 14 cities and towns served by the road must make it up and also pay the guaranteed 5 per cent to stockholders each year, amounting to $1,193,970.

"Records show private accountants who examined the balance sheets of the road received less than $5000 for their work. It would be impossible, for that amount, for them to give a complete, detialed examination of the operation of this $37,000,000 business."

Rep. McMorrow charged the proposed increase was outrageous and unwarranted.

"If expenses of the El should be curtailed, they should be cut among those in high salaried positions," he said. "There are 28 men on the El payroll getting from $6000 to $30,000 yearly. Two new $11,000 positions were created last year.

"Many of these high salaried positions are unnecessary. There is too much politics in the management. Jobs are created for friends.

"The trustees should have the interests of the people at heart. The El voted to give $10,000 to charity in 1943 and 1944 after every employe had made voluntary contributions to the same charity. That money represented deficit and the patrons of the road had to make it up.

"The municipally owned street railways of Detroit and Cleveland both make money through economical operation while our El piles up deficits. Detroit showed a profit of more than a half-million last year while the Boston El was losing almost a half-million."

Famine in Gas Will Be Brief

The sudden ending of gasoline rationing brought a shortage of the precious fuel to Greater Boston today as exuberant motorists quickly drained filling station tanks with "fill 'er up" orders.

However, the shortage was expected by leaders of the industry to prevail for only a day or two until emergency shipments of military supplies could be sent here from other areas.

Clyde Morrill, executive director of the Independent Oil Dealers' Ass'n of New England, declared there were no substantial military stocks in this area which could be released for civilian consumption and that steps were being taken today to bring such supplies from sections of the nation where they were more plentiful.

He predicted the shortage in roadside filling stations would be felt for several days, varying according to location.

However, he said, within 10 days substantial supplies of gasoline and oil would reach Greater Boston and New England by tankers from the gulf and there would be plenty available for all.

"Motorists have waited a long time for gasoline rationing to end," he pointed out. "There's no reason now to hog the available supplies. If everyone would purchase only as much as he needs, there should be enough to go around until ample supplies arrive here."

He expressed hope some supplies could reach Boston in time for the week-end, when many persons hope to be able to enjoy the first Sunday of peacetime without worrying about gasoline.

Morrill said a survey had shown there was plenty of fuel oil available as the result of release of military supplies.

He urged householders to fill their tanks now so additional supplies could be brought here.

Those who had converted to coal burning as a result of the fuel oil shortage also were advised to re-install their oil burners as soon as possible as a means of alleviating a prospective coal shortage.

There was no question that the sudden end of gasoline rationing came as a complete surprise to the industry.

Frederick H. Moore, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Retail Gasoline Dealers' Ass'n, said that as late as last Friday leaders of the industry figured rationing would continue anywhere from one to three months.

As a result, he said, many dealers were caught short as happy motorists descended on them in hordes.

Some dealers finally placed a five-gallon limit on all sales in order to supply as many customers as possible, but the heavy demand drained tanks rapidly.

Mrs. Philip Rowe declined to say when her daughter married Martin, a former president of the State of Maine Future Farmers of America, and said only that they were "away."

Yesterday guests had assembled for the scheduled wedding of Martin and Miss Furbish in the Warren Congregational Church. They left 15 minutes later when the Rev. Roderick A. McDonald announced there would be no wedding.

Death Takes Holiday for Baby Boy

Golden curly locks and a bright sun combined today to save the life of 11-months-old William Quigley from death beneath the wheels of a street car near his home in Sea st., Hough's Neck.

The child lay unnoticed on the tracks as Motorman John L. Maloney of Holbrook st., Quincy, approached.

"Suddenly, I noticed something shining bright like gold on the rails about 25 feet ahead," Maloney related. "I jammed on the brakes and threw her into reverse just in time."

When the car ground to a stop, little William was beneath the front vestibule, his body only four inches from the wheels.

Maloney and a passing motorist pulled the youngster free and rushed him to Quincy Hospital where doctors found he had suffered head scrapes and cuts.

He was held for observation, although doctors said his condition was not serious. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Quigley.

If This Interests You, OWI Says Arsenic Controls Off

By MARTHA KEARNEY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (INS)—Just as President Truman announced that the nation had two full days in which to blow its top, OWI issued a communique removing controls on arsenic consumption.

Arsenic may or may not be OWI's remedy for the letdown feeling that follows two days of celebration on practically an atatomic scale.

It is clear, however, that OWI is drawing toward the close of its official life in a blaze of irrelevance.

When newspapers were packed with news of the Jap surrender, the efficiency of the atomic bomb and an explanation of radar, OWI released a flash on the revision of the ceiling price on popcurn.

At the same time, when the nation's lid of wartime repression flew off with a mighty roar, OWI issued a stern warning to manufacturers that restrictions on the use of Dolman sleeves had not been relaxed or lifted.

The official national press agent even guessed wrong on the end of the war. OWI advertised the sale of 1000 small ship's bells "ideal for ringing out the victory peal."

Unfortunately, the sale was to begin today, two days after the victory peals were rung.

Vinson Planning Victory Loan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (INS)—Secretary of Treasury Fred M. Vinson went ahead today with plans for a "victory loan drive" for between ten and fourteen billion dollars to begin at the "earliest possible date."

Vinson said the money is needed to finance five pieces of unfinished business:

Transportation home for the victorious troops; mustering out pay; care of the disabled; maintenance of occupation forces in Germany and Japan, and cancellation of war contracts.

He asserted the victory loan should be "the last of our organized drives."

He recommended, however, the government continue sale of United States savings bonds "especially under the payroll savings plan."

Looting Orgy Ends Frisco Celebration

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16 (AP)—A wild night of uncontrolled rioting, looting and assaults subsided here this morning after 1000 police and Navy shore patrolmen dispersed mobs jamming downtown San Francisco streets.

The city's third night of celebrating found crowds in a destructive mood. Nearly every plate glass window on lower Market st. was shattered, display shelves were cleaned out, parked automobiles badly battered and women roughly handled.

Sailors, comprising the bulk of the mob, were ordered back to their stations around midnight. Rear Adm. Carleton H. Wright, commandant of the 12th Naval District, threatened to cancel all overnight liberty for Navy personnel.

Civilians were ordered off the streets and hundreds of teen-agers taking part in the looting were threatened with arrest.

Finds Artificial Legs, Arms Fine

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 16 (AP)—PFC James W. Wilson, Jacksonville, Fla., radio operator-gunner, who lost parts of all four limbs, took his first stroll on the boardwalk here and said, "It felt fine."

Equipped with artificial legs and hands, Wilson expects to remain at the England General Hospital here until he gets his discharge in December. Then his plans call for college.

Court Brands Two In Holdup 'Hoodlums'

Joseph Fitzpatrick, 20, of Lyman st., and Joseph Russo, 23, of Brighton st., both West End, were held for the grand jury in $5000 each when found guilty in Municipal Court of assault and battery with intent to rob.

They were branded by Judge Elijah Adlow as "hoodlums" and "professional sluggers" when the victim, William F. Hurley of Somerville, told his story. Hurley, so badly battered that he was barely able to talk in court said he saved his $5 roll by "runnin' like the devil."

The Worm Turns--Customer Is Right

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16—Now comes the time when courtesy and square dealing will pay off for the merchants, restaurant operators and other purveyors to the public who practiced those far-seeing virtues during the stress of war.

SEEKS DIVORCE—A divorce is in the offing for Ruth Mannix, heiress to a Hollywood film fortune, according to reports by West Coast columnists.

Coincidentally, the time is at hand when a great many of the other sort will wonder where their customers went.

In some restaurants of Washington today scowling waiters were still serving quarter-portions of the plentiful varities of food at outrageous prices. But there were many signs that the profiteers and practitioners of discourtesy as a war policy had started a retreat.

There was a general appearance of butter in eating places.

Clerks at a growing number of places were smiling pleastantly and speaking courteously under the anxious eyes of suddenly reformed employers who not so long had condoned such signs above the counters as "treat our employees nicely; we can always get customers."

The public was beginning to bite back. Not only in Washington but apparently in all the rest of the country, for the manifold grievances inflicted by proprietors of supply and service who apparently had thought the war was going to last forever.

Burma Japs Fire On RAF Plane

PEGU, BUrma, Aug. 16 (AP)—A C-47 RAF cargo plane carrying leaflets with the news of Emperor Hrohita's surrender of all Japan's forces was fired upon today over Moulmein, headquarters of Japanese remaining in Burma.

Indications were that the Japs were ready to continue resistance, either in ignorance or disregard of the emperor's capitulation rescript.

Jap Balloon Bombs Still May Pelt U. S.

SEATTLE, Aug. 16 (AP)—The wind-wafted, bomb carrying balloons Japan sent to America may keep searching parties busy long after the last shot is fired in the Pacific, authorities believe.

The problem now, they said, is to prevent injury or damage from bombs still undiscovered.

FREIGHT LOAD EASED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—The Association of American Railroads said today that the Army and Navy have halted movements of all military freight by rail except solid fuels and perishable foods.

Truman

seem to indicate the Japs are planning a military comeback.

Nearly every defeated people felt that way about it, the President remarked. But, he added, he did not think the Japanese ever would have a chance to obtain revenge.

The President, clad in a tan summer suit and wearing a brown bow tie, opened his conference with the remark that he had no particular news, but thought reporters ought to have a chance to look him in the face and ask him pertinent questions. He grinned as he said this.

There was nothing, the President added, likely to come out of this that the reporters would have to break an arm for in getting to the telephone. Some White House reporters have been injured recently in scrambles to break war news.

When a reporter asked what was to be done with the three large plants that make up the Manhattan Project where the major work is done in producing the atomic bomb, the President said that is up to Congress.

In the long run, he said, the atomic energy developed for use in these devastating bombs can be employed for the welfare and benefit of the world instead of its destruction.

He hoped, the President said, Congress would co-operate in peacetime development of the atom-splitting project. He said the work is continuing meanwhile until Congress makes a decision. Previously Mr. Truman had urged congressional establishment of a commission which would control production of atomic energy and direct its development for peacetime uses.

He reiterated that V-J day will not come until the Japanese surrender is officially signed. He said V-J day would not be a holiday and added the people had had enough holidays yesterday and today.

Discussing foreign affairs generally, he said there had been talk at the Big 3 meeting in Potsdam of the Korean situation and it was his belief the Cairo declaration which ultimately would make Korea a free and independent state would be carried out.

There was no talk at the Potsdam meeting, he said, of the fate of Hongkong, British crown colony seized by the Japs early in the war.

Birds Detected

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16 (AP)—A 61-minute air raid alert here on June 27, 1943, it now may be disclosed, was occasioned by "the approach of unidentified targets," possibly "a whole flock of pelicans" whose flight was picked up off the Golden Gate by radar.

The Army's announcement of the all clear said that the targets disappeared.

Under military censorship a satisfactory explanation could not be made. Now it can be reported that radar can detect a single pelican at sea, and that in the June, 1943, incident there appeared to be "a whole flock of them."

Boston Victory Revelers Relax

Boston relaxed today with thousands of workers enjoying the second of the two-day peace holiday, taking their families to beaches or inland resorts for a day of recreation.

The mood of celebration was pretty well spent after two hectic nights, and Nantasket and Revere beaches were crowded with family groups enjoying the quiet.

Those fortunate enough to obtain ample supplies of gasoline hit the highways and State Police reported unusually heavy traffic.

Most pressing problem of Greater Boston was food.

Downtown restaurants, eaten out of all supplies by celebrators for the past two nights, were trying to arrange for emergency shipments to handle today's menus.

Many retail grocers, who closed down all day yesterday, opened today to ease the shortage of food in many households, caught unprepared.

A. L. Head Urges Furlough Pay Plan

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16—Prompt adoption of the American Legion's new furlough pay program will be asked of Congress immediately on its return from its summer recess, Edward N. Scheiberling, national Legion commander, said today.

Legion headquarters here reported that the plan, which was announced only last night, is already bringing widespread favorable response.

Designed to speed demobilization and sustain returning veterans through the reconversion lag when millions will be out of work, the plan calls for granting full furlough pay and allowances to all returning veterans until they secure jobs.

"Legislation will be required to make this program effective," Scheiberling asserted. "The American Legion will press for early consideration and enactment of the necessary legislation as soon as Congress returns."

Both the House Military Affairs Committee and the House Appropriations Committee will be required to act on the Legion's measure when it is introduced, other Legion officials observed.

Scheiberling emphasized that the furlough pay plan does not in any way detract from the Legion's long-range full employment program, with 55,000,000 useful jobs as its goal.

Instead it will stimulate the reconversion effort and hasten the establishment of a sound peacetime economy, he said.

Veterans of Foreign Wars, the second largest veterans' organization, also is alarmed by the prospect of a period of widespread unemployment.

Instead of endorsing the Legion's furlough plan, it will launch an all-out campaign for an adjustment compensation bill when Congress returns, Omar B. Ketchum, national V.F.W. legislative director, said today.

The V. F. W. will press for hearings before the Ways and Means Committee on legislation introduced by Rep. John Lesinski (D.) of Michigan, which would provide bonuses up to to $3500 for veterans who saw no foreign service, $4500 for overseas veterans who did not suffer wounds, and $5000 for veterans who have received the Purple Heart.

Payment would be in bonds, with only one-fifth of the total compensation payable in any one year.

A bit abashed, the youth returned and commented he was sorry before paying the fine with a grin and departing.

NEW!...VITAMIN
Trial Treatment for
HAY FEVER
BRINGING AMAZING RELIEF TO MANY HAY FEVER AND ASTHMA SUFFERERS
WHEN DUE TO ASCORBIC ACID LACK

VEGETRATES A-S-C may be just what you need

AMAZING hope for the relief of hay fever and asthma and other conditions due to allergies has been reported by a famous professor and other doctors.

For years hundreds of thousands of people have wandered about, unhappy sniffling and sneezing, and itching and wheezing for a few months each year, while doctors were baffled by the seriously prolonged "colds" and were at a loss as to how to treat them.

A great many scientists have been working to find something to give relief in these allergy conditions. Now, in high quantities of ascorbic acid some of them think they can offer fresh hope to the man or woman who is unfortunate enough to suffer from hay fever or asthma.

Large Quantities of Ascorbic Acid Relieved 88% of Cases in Clinical Tests

During a period of four years, a famous scientist had noticed that the body's supply of vitamin C seems to go down during hay fever attacks. So he decided to experiment with actual results of using unusually large doses of ascorbic acid in treating 25 human hay fever sufferers during the height of the hay fever season. These 25 hay fever sufferers were given large amounts of ascorbic acid daily and there was a decided improvement in 88% of the patients participating in this experiment.

Hay Fever—"Out"—Amazing Relief the New Scientific Way

Check with your doctor. Ask him what 100 mgm. ascorbic acid can do for the sufferer of nay fever, asthma and food allergies.

Three well known doctors recently reported in a prominent medical journal that cases of bronchial asthma showed marked improvement when the blood was saturated with ascorbic acid, which is the basis of "VEGETRATES A-S-C."

We all know that in this life nothing is certain. These tablets may not help but—taken with a mucus free diet should prove beneficial. Hay fever sufferers wishing to experiment with this high potency ascorbic acid can now get extra high strength ascorbic acid in easy-to-take tablets at the Nature Food Centres Stores. These tablets are called "VEGETRATES A-S-C TABLETS." Think of it!—all this ascorbic acid in one small tablet! Try "VEGETRATES A-S-C TABLETS" at once. They are inexpensive to use and are absolutely harmless. Each tiny "VEGETRATES A-S-C TABLET" contains 100 milligrams of ascorbic acid, over three times the minimum adult daily requirement. One or two of these tablets daily should be enough to give this a fair trial.

"VEGETRATES A-S-C TABLETS" will be found highly beneficial in improving the general condition, as well as effective in establishing systemic resistance to allergies.

Extra high strength ascorbic acid, as found in "VEGETRATES A-S-C TABLETS," offers such great promise of success in these miserable sensitivities that every hay fever sufferer should try for relief now. Why suffer this season if "VEGETRATES A-S-C TABLETS" may stop that sneeze? Get "VEGETRATES A-S-C TABLETS" today at any Nature Food Centres Store. 100 Tablet Bottle $2.50. Mail orders postpaid. Time for Late Crops

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head, Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School and Director of the Daily Record-American-Sunday Advertiser demonstration garden on Boston Common.

Although shorter days and cooler weather are true indications of the advancing season, gardeners should remember that there is still time to plant some of the hardy crops which prefer short growing days. So if you have some space left, plant some beets, purple top turnip, loose leaf lettuce, spinach and radish for late fall use.

It must be kept in mind, however, that these crops must be brought along fast and not allowed to dry out. The best way to prepare the land for these crops is to clean up crop refuse from the early crops, work over the surface lightly and work in some complete fertilizer. Then plant seed as directed for earlier plantings. Watch out for dry weather and keep soil moist to hasten germination. With warm soil and moisture these seeds will germinate in less than a week.

Many gardeners are having trouble with their vine crops wilting. Cucumbers that wilt are probably showing the effect of bacterial wilt. This disease is spread by the striped cucumber beetle. Once the plant is diseased there is nothing that can be done except remove it as a source of infection. The only control is to try to keep the beetles down, which is almost impossible after the vines start to run.

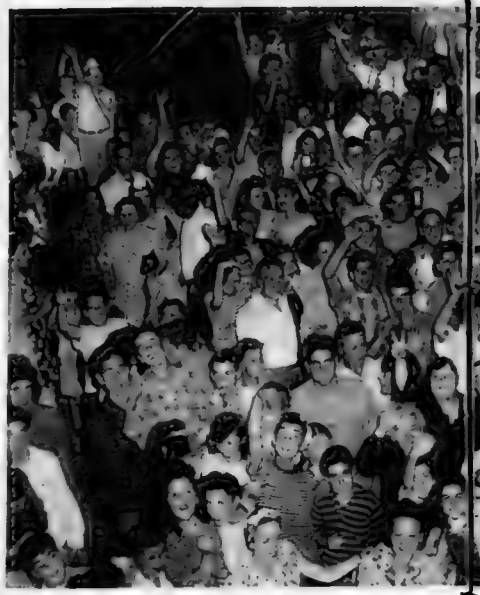
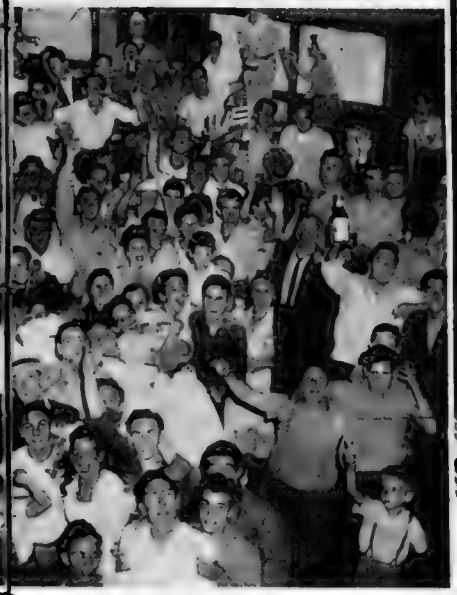
Celebration Crowds Continue Gaiety Into Second Day

Photogs' Reconversion—For the first time since the beginning of the war, news photographers are allowed to make pictures aboard boats in Boston harbor and, taking advantage of the lifting of the ban, Photog Bill Jones rushed down to the Nantasket boat and lined up S 2c Donald Byrnes of Albany, N. Y., and Mary Ellen Markey of Jamaica Plain for a prewar type shipboard photo.

Happy Wounded—War's end, for which they fought and were wounded, bring smiles of joy to PFC Louis DiSabatino, Everett (left) and Pvt. Joseph Aceto, West End, in their ward at Camp Edwards General Hospital.





Children Continue Victory Parades—Impromptu parade was staged by these Watertown children who marched through the streets of the city with an effigy of Hirohito hanging up on the back of their cart. Youngsters everywhere played an important part in the surrender celebration. Street parades, horn blowing and noise making were the order of the day for the youthful demonstrators.

St. Stephan's Spire—One of the spires of the 800-year-old Church of St. Stephan in Vienna rises majestically as seen through the bombed out roof of another part of the ancient edifice. Stubborn German resistance in this section of the old Danube city caused destruction of many of the beautiful buildings.

North End

Scenes of hilarious fun making continued in the North End where residents proclaimed open house to celebrate the Japanese surrender. Crowds gathered in the streets for dancing and wine was distributed to toast the victorious Allies. More than 50,000 persons were estimated to have participated.

Happy Days

With the official announcement that gasoline rationing had been suspended, due to the Jap surrender, a delighted motorist has his tank filled, plus special service from five attendants, who give him all the prewar extras at a New York filling station.

Wounded Celebrate

Real holiday spirit prevailed at the Camp Edwards Hospital center to celebrate the second day of the Jap surrender news. Girls from neighboring towns joined in the festivities and danced with the convalescent GIs at the open air shell. Sailors from Otis Field were invited to the gay celebration.

Truman Turns To the Right

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

IN THE REAL POLITICS of the coming period, a basic domestic question is what will be the effect of the victory of the Socialist program of the British Labor Party on the direction of President Truman's thinking.

Will the British trend push him to the left or to the right?

At first blush, it would superficially appear that President Truman, seeing the handwriting on the wall, would himself be inclined to move left of center. (I am using these common labels to indicate relative movements, though I regard them as loose and inaccurate.)

But such an appraisal does not do justice either to Mr. Truman's integrity or to his political sagacity.

The objective fact appears to be that the British elections will tend to make it increasingly difficult for the Administration to continue to work harmoniously with both wings of the Democratic Party.

As a matter of fact, the success of the labor party at the ballot box will make our own leftists feel their oats, and become dissatisfied with such crumbs as they may receive as appendages of the Democratic Party.

A STRAW IN THE WIND was the recent action of the Communist Political Association in "liquidating" Earl Browder for the crime of abating pure Communism during the war in order to cooperate with the New Deal.

Thus class-conscious elements in this country, perhaps propagandized by the Political Action Committee of the CIO, will in time want to emulate the British Labor Party, and take over the Government of the United States.

Accordingly, the practical, sensible, and middle-of-the-road Harry S. Truman, will not meet the ideological requirements of the leftist strategists.

Although the die has not yet been cast, a tipoff as to the thinking in such quarters is given by the leftist spokesman, I. F. Stone, of the staff of Marshall Field's P. M., in an article in the Nation. In delineating the effect of the British election on the United States, Mr. Stone argues:

". . . Here as there (in Great Britain) the preservation of areas of genuine free enterprise depends on large admixtures of Socialism . . .

". . . We need to abandon the shabby and inadequate catchwords of the New Deal, its bootstrap economics and subsidies for planned scarcity. It is time to lay the foundations for a new Socialist movement in America, to analyze our problems in Socialist terms, to begin a campaign of public education in them. What I am suggesting is a Marxian approach . . ."

MR. TRUMAN'S political prestige rests on being himself—a canny Middlewesterner, a self-made man, and a firm believer in the American way of life.

In his radio address after his return from Potsdam, Mr. Truman spoke in the best accents of authentic Americanism when he uttered these inspiring words:

". . . A society of self-governing men is more powerful, more enduring, more creative than any other kind of society, however disciplined, however centralized.

"We know now that the basic proposition of the worth and dignity of man is not a sentimental aspiration or a vain hope or a piece of rhetoric. It is the strongest, the most creative force now present in this world."

Thus, Mr. Truman has written his own platform as a public man. He rests his case before the public on a platform of genuine Americanism, in which the rights of the individual will be protected from the threat of domination by a central government.

In thus committing himself, Mr. Truman, with his eyes open, has read himself out of Socialist and Communist favor.

I long to hear you whistle
As you hurry home to me
When work and toil is ended
And your soul again is free.
I hear that airy step of yours
That merry, carefree tune
No, it can't be so, not yet,
But, please God make it soon.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—Several statesmen of both Houses of Congress have uttered indignant denials of a charge by a psychiatrist attached to a government lunatic asylum in Washington that Congress drinks too much. If they are right, as my observation leads me to believe they are, then they are civic slackers because it will be remembered that when repeal was the dominating issue of the 1932 election, those who were opposed to prohibition took an obligation to drink our beloved nation out of debt.

Westbrook Pegler

The taxes to the federal, state, county and municipal governments would swell the treasuries, and unemployment would be abolished as men were absorbed into the breweries, distilleries, glass-works for the manufacture of bottles and glasses of various shapes, the cork factories and bottling plants, and the hospitals for service as attendants to honorable casualties in this phase of our war on want.

We had figures to prove it, too, and the failure of this solution to solve the problems which it was designed to solve is almost enough to destroy one's faith in simple arithmetic. Nothing was solved even though we became the hard-drinkingest people in the world and even though all those predictions did come true about the absorption of toilers into the beer and liquor trades.

★ ★ ★

MY ACQUAINTANCE among Congressmen is a reliable sampling and I have to say that these patriots have not stood to the bar as faithfully as some other groups. On a recent afternoon, when the bell had rung and school was out, so to speak, a Republican statesman pulled out the drawer of his desk producing a quart of squeezing and two glasses and we had two apiece. Then he put the equipment back, chewed a clove and drove expertly home to dinner.

Others of my acquaintance drink no more and some drink less or not at all.

Glancing back, I am inclined to hold that it is up to the younger generation to do the heavy drinking if they would preserve the victory which we of the prohibition era won for them in a long and often painful contest with Wayne B. Wheeler, Bishop Cannon, Deets Picket and the Rev. Clarence True Wilson, a dry who was a bosom friend of Clarence Darrow, a wet, and sometimes traveled with him to debates, sharing a drawing room, one with a tumbler of milk on the table between them as they went over their lines, the other with a glass of Maryland corn.

We went through some awful trials with the synthetics that our 'leggers and speakeasies provided to keep the rebellion going but these Caribbean rums which have been shipped in to take the place of wholesome, honest booze curtailed by the war are beyond the reduced endurance of men and women who, in younger years, drank mule from mason jars and found it not too bad.

I HAVE BEEN INSPECTING my conscience and suspect that I was insincere in stating in those days that if we could have beer again and light wine we would all become temperate and content. The corner saloon, we said, must never come back, but that was a technicality for the saloon in the middle of the block is still a saloon and as soon as the licenses could be cleared we were shoving cocktails of atomic strength in dairy lunch rooms right there in Washington and through the agency of young waitresses, at that.

We never had waitresses in the old corner saloon and lady trade was strictly forbidden except in the Palm Room back behind. But the distaff had joined us in flouting the foul amendment over the bitter years and their score of hang-over and ulcers had earned them a right to become maudlin, untidy and idiotic on equality with the men.

So fallible and emotional is memory that the drys blame and the wets among us praise Franklin D. Roosevelt for repeal when the contest is recalled at all and most opinion holds that the New Deal, the money changers in the temple and national recovery, dominated that campaign of 1932.

Actually, the issue was prohibition which Mr. Hoover lacked the political wisdom to disown and Roosevelt was elected as a wet. But he was not a wet until Al Smith had carried the banner and had been riddled by such dries as William McAdoo and Cordell Hull who were Roosevelt men. And, because he had taken no stand himself on the issue of repeal the convention dispersed very doubtful of his ability to carry his own state, much less the nation.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16—I hope the news today that the practically unknown Mark Stevens gets the male lead opposite Joan Fontaine in "All Brides Are Beautiful" ends forever those stories that Joan is temperamental and wants to work with only big "names."

Joan Fontaine

Certainly young Stevens (whose real name is Steven Richards) is no name — yet. He has played bits in "Pride of the Marines" and "God Is My Co-pilot," but even his relatives had to blink fast to catch him as he flashed by.

Let me tell you how Mark got the part. He tested, and then RKO tested more prominent actors aplenty—but they kept coming back to his as the best. This morning they told him he was elected and borrowed him from 20th Century-Fox. He's very young—in his early twenties, and before coming to Hollywood he played with "The Drunkard" company in Canada. Outside of the fact that he was born in Akron, Ohio, this just about completes his biography.

DON'T EVER KID YOURSELF that Universal was just using Yvonne de Carlo as a threat over Maria Montez' head. She landed on both feet with "Salome, Where She Danced" and from here on in she's one of their top attractions. You'll believe that even more when I tell you Yvonne stars in "Heat Wave." Because she is so lush in Technicolor she gets the color treatment and, in addition, Walter Reish to direct the film. He scripted "Ninotchka" and "Gaslight" for M-G-M, but this is his first fling as a director. "Heat Wave" sounds like a hot-cha comedy, but it's really dramatic with a musical score adapted from Rimsky-Korsakov.

I ASKED young Richard Lyon to go with me to see a movie. "I can't," he said, "I've got to be up early and go to work!" That's the first I had heard that Richard reports for 'The Green Years," the Cronin story, at Metro. His role is that of the other little boy, Bebe Daniels, his mother, who wasn't much older than Richard when she started acting, heard him read his lines. She couldn't be more pleased over the progress he has made. In his last movie, "The Unseen," which wasn't too hot, he received the praise of even those who weren't keen about the picture.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Betty Towne, Gene's ex-wife, has been secretly married to George Kehner, a first ensign in the Merchant Marine, now in Germany. She is living in Hollywood until he comes home; Robert Montgomery, who was at the cocktail party Mrs. Henry Fonda gave, is one who has a pessimistic outlook toward the Japs. He served for so long in the South Pacific and believes they will always be treacherous. The Fonda farmhouse is really a beautiful place with acres of land all around it. Many of the wives, whose husbands were at the Hal Roach stag party for Jimmie Walker, remained on, having supper out on the lawn; the Bill Hollingsworths came together and everyone is hoping it may mean a reconciliation; Tony Lanier had the most effective chapeau there—a huge black affair with flowers; Charles Chaplin, Jr., walked into Ciro's with Dolores Rubens, a pretty little brunette—a script girl at one of the studios. Where was Patty Englund, his real girl friend?; Adela Rogers St. John, brilliant author-journalist, and a grand gal, has signed a swell new contract with M-G-M; Sonja Henie, dining with Cubby Broccoli and Bob Topping, her brother-in-law, was photographed again and again in one of the cafes. So was Lana Turner, sitting demurely between her two agents, Abe Lastfogel and Johnny Hyde; Norma Hall Netcher lunched with her ex-husband, Townsend Netcher, today. May be a reconciliation; Rudy Vallee has sold his famous Maine lodge to a fish-canning magnate; Jacques Leslie, one of our bright young legal minds, has become general counsel for Feldman-Blum; Ruth Mannix, who married a rancher a few years ago, is getting a divorce.

New Kind of Skin Care

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

Beauty and Fashion Editor

TRADITION tells us that cleanliness is next to godliness . . . and beauty tells us that SHE is right next to cleanliness! No skin is beautiful . . . no skin can be smooth and soft and even-textured . . . unless it is kept immaculately clean at all times.

It matters WHAT you clean your face with as well as HOW you clean it. When your complexion is spic-span clean . . . it will glow . . . feel refreshed and relaxed and of course . . . be absolutely rid of all cream.

All too often this primary beauty step is taken for granted and done in a careless, slap-happy fashion . . . with tell-tale lines of cream or soap remaining around the hairline or cheek-bones. For you who are about to enter new educational portals, for instance . . . let me suggest you study your complexion. Analyze it . . . or ask the advice of an experienced cosmetician. Remember . . . what you do to your skin today AND tonight . . . may determine your complexion six months . . . even five years from now.

MUST NOT DILLY-DALLY NOW

Those women who have used this or that cosmetic in a trial and error method . . . too often too costly to the skin . . . doubtless have come to the realization that skin care needs solid care . . . care contingent upon a topnotch cosmetic for best results.

No more dilly-dallying with beauty . . . Beauty is now imperative . . . now is the time to start that road to loveliness for that day of days when you-know-who will be coming home. Today we are a happy nation . . . a people thrilled beyond words that the fighting is at last over . . . a people who are reverently glad that our trust in the right has vanquished our enemies . . . let us create a new road to personal achievement and personal charm.

MILK-WASHES THE SKIN

We know of a preparation which gives you a new kind of skin care . . . quickly, easily. It's not "just another cream" . . . it's not a soap . . . it's not a mask. It is a miracle cleanser and it is made with 80 per cent pure pasteurized milk. You just put it on . . . wash it off . . . and your skin is milk-washed, deliciously clean. That's the beginning.

Follow with a second product . . . a milkless emollient of fine skin-softening oils. This will aid in keeping your complexion smooth and soft . . . and it is also an excellent light powder base. Whether you are assembling your new wardrobe for campus wear . . . or getting ready to emerge a captivating heroine . . . here are two products that do a complexion fashion job No. 1 for your face.

For the names of these two complexion essentials, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SUMMERTIME beauty is wholesome and charming . . . but who can take beauty in the raw for too long a time and not show the effects? Can you eat raw carrots day in and day out? Let two beauty essentials . . . noted for their complexion ingenuity . . . bring new joy and radiant sparkle to your face . . . and then see if you can match complexions with charming Alexis Smith.

Molasses Old Idea

By MARTHA LEE

THE QUESTION HAS been asked us about the advisability of using molasses for sweetening in putting up pickles and relishes. Using molasses for this purpose is not a new idea. Our grandmothers used it for much of their pickling and preserving and won great fame for their culinary skill.

However, there are a few facts to keep in mind when replacing sugar with molasses and it would be well to make a note of them, as follows:

1—Use a high-quality old-fashioned unsulphured molasses because of its extra sweetness.

2—Since molasses contains moisture, it is necessary to use strong vinegar; omit any water that may be called for in your recipe.

3—The addition of a little red vegetable coloring will brighten the color of your red relishes, as in beet relish. Tumeric will give that golden color to your corn relish and other mustard-colored pickles.

GREEN TOMATO MINCE MEAT

7 large green tomatoes, chopped
½ large pears, coarsely chopped
3 cups seedless raisins
6 large tart cooking apples, chopped
2 cups molasses
1-3 cup each strong vinegar and lemon juice
Rind of 2 oranges, coarsely ground
2 tsp. grated lemon rind
1 tsp. each cloves and salt
1 tsp. each, ginger, allspice and nutmeg
½ tsp. cinnamon
2 cups nuts, coarsely chopped

Put all ingredients except nuts in large kettle. Cook slowly 5 minutes. Increase heat; cook rapidly until tomatoes and apples are tender and mixture is thick, about 30 minutes. Add nuts. Seal airtight in hot, sterilized jars. Makes 4 pints.

BEET PICKLE

2½ qts. cooked beets
1 qt. strong vinegar
1 cup molasses
2 tsp. each mustard seed and celery seed
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. whole cloves
2 sticks cinnamon
5 small onions sliced

Peel beets. If small, leave whole. If large, slice or quarter. Put remaining ingredients in large kettle. Bring to boiling. Add beets, a few at a time, and onions. Reheat to boiling. Pack in hot sterilized jars. Pour hot vinegar over beets. Seal airtight. Makes 5 pints.

CHILI SAUCE

1½ gals. quartered ripe tomatoes
3 cups minced green peppers
3 cups minced onions
4½ cups strong vinegar
1½ cups molasses
1½ tsp. each, ground cloves, allspice and black pepper
6 tbsp. salt
3 very small pods hot, red pepper

Cook all ingredients together rapidly in large kettle until thick (about 1 hour). Stir constantly. Long slow cooking gives a dark color. Seal airtight in hot, sterilized jars. Makes 9 half pint jars.

PEAR AND APPLE RELISH

1½ cups chopped pears (about 2 lbs.)
1½ cups chopped tart apples (about 2 lbs.)
½ cup each, chopped onion and sweet red pepper
1 cup each, raisins and chopped sweet green peppers
2 cups strong vinegar
1½ cups molasses
1 tsp. each salt and tumeric
1 tbsp. each, ginger and mixed pickling spices

Bring vinegar, molasses, salt, tumeric, ginger and mixed pickling spices (tied in a cloth bag) to a boil. Add remaining ingredients. Cook 45 minutes or until thick. Seal airtight in hot sterilized jars. Makes about 5 half-pint jars.

Fashion

ALL THE dimpled darlings will come out of hibernation . . . now that happy days will soon be here again . . . and to reflect the glad tomorrows . . . here is a J. Edgar Lorie "dimpled darling" . . . of soft brown felt with a rolled brim and pointed crown. A golden satin ribbon ornaments the front . . . high and towering for the optimistic outlook decreed by the Millinery Creators' Guild for the new season millinery keynote.—R. M.

Tea-Party Menu

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: We are giving soon a tea party for our most intimate friends. Would it be proper for us to serve a salad? Also what other refreshments could be served?

M. G. AND P. B.

The customary tea-menu consists of three items that can be classified under the heads of "beverages," "bread" and "cake." Tea or coffee is served; in summer, usually one hot, and the other, or something similar, cold. For the "bread" item, any of these: thin sandwiches, in dainty size; or tiny buttered hot tea biscuits, muffins, or scones or toasted English muffins or thin golden-brown toast, plain or with cinnamon (with any of these may be served jam or marmalade). And the cake may be little pastries, or slices of plain cake, or cookies, or a layer cake.

You may, if you wish, serve a salad, perhaps, in the summer, a delicious cold fruit salad, with bread-and-butter sandwiches or baked rolls or tiny tea biscuits.

Slapped by Her 'In-Laws'

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I'm a girl of 25 years, have been married for five years. I have a little boy of three, and live with my husband's family while he is away. He is a lieutenant in the Army and is now in Germany.

I don't get along very well with my in-laws, and the other day we had a quarrel because they're always trying to interfere in my business and trying to tell me how to rear my child. It has now come to a point where they slap me.

Do you think I should tell my husband and my own parents about the way I'm being treated, as I've never told it to anyone? Don't you think I should go home and live with my own parents until my husband returns? I need your advice desperately. "PEGGY."

Thank goodness, you've got parents to whom you can go, and I suggest returning to them as soon as possible. The effect on a child of three, of seeing his mother cuffed and slapped, is destructive of his morale.

Please don't write to your husband. He has enough to make him unhappy, without thinking of such conditions at home. And perhaps you can get a good job while your mother could take care of your little son.

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

PLEASE DON'T. Whether in the office or at home, don't put your feet on a chair! This is hard on furniture . . . and even harder on the clothing of the person who must sit on the chair.

Know What You Want

By BETTINA BEDWELL

I have been told recently by various people who serve you women that you are likely to be as vague as a breeze in a heat wave about what you want. Saleswomen in shops say that if the ladies would come into a store with some idea, however slight, about what kind of dress, or hat, shoes, or what not, they want, they would be much more apt to get it.

But the girls come in and ask for something without, seemingly, the faintest idea as to what it is they want. And then by what they don't want they slowly prove that they do know what they want. It would have been so simple to say it in the first place.

And the laundry and the cleaners, too they say they could do a much better job if when you give them a garment to be cleaned you would mention some important facts about the spots on it—what they are from, so these folks will know what to do.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—Gotham Scenery: Margaret Sullavan, spic and span and sparkling in a crisp linen suit at 55th and Fifth . . . Judy Garland and Vincente Minelli at Leon and Eddie's elated over the significance of the wristwatches they exchanged—both monogrammed "V-J" . . . Gertie Niesen having her shoes shined outside the Broadhurst stage door by a shine boy who recites poetry while he polishes . . . Marianne O'Brien and Martha Goldthwaite eyeing each other's fantastic bonnets with mutual amazement on the Latin Quarter ringside . . . Jim Farley drinking soda pop (he never takes anything stronger) in the Champagne Room at El Morocco . . . Lynn Fontanne gliding across the St. Regis lobby to the music of recognition whispers.

THE ATOMIC AGE began with a bang heard 'round the world—but loudest in the chambers of the Japanese war lords . . . And the same week a Chicago firm manufactured a machine which it claimed will wash and rinse clothes, peel potatoes, make ice cream, churn butter and do the dishes. (What no newsreels and selected short subjects?) . . . Miss Atlanta of 1945 turned out to be a Mrs. . . . Oona O'Neill announced the impending arrival of another little Chaplin

TIMES SQUARE CUFF NOTES: Lily Pons is flying to Paris to sing at the Aug. 17 Liberation Day celebration . . . Milton Berle's new stooge will be a good-looking honey blonde who can sing and take a deluge of practical jokes—if he can find a belle answering to that description . . . Lou Walters has purchased the Terrace Club in Miami, and will make it an "international" night club . . . Courtney Kane, the young Buffalo moneybags, has made the Carole Landis-Horace Schmidlapp wedding look like less of a sure thing.

FACES IN PLACES: Jean Parker being whistled at by the sidewalk loungers at 46th and Broadway . . . Roger Pryor, the former maestro-actor, almost unrecognizable at LaMartinique—gray-haired, mustachioed, and wearing tortoise-rimmed glasses . . . Binnie Barnes toying with a blue plate special in the Automat . . . Edmund Lowe, the tailor-trim hum, looking as suave as the film roles he usually draws as he strolls Madison ave. . . . Joe Kennedy and Morton Downey in a Gaelic huddle at the Stork Club.

ALL AROUND THE TOWN: Liz Whitney is doing the atmospheric places with her current favorite fella, a lad named Wiley who manages her farm in Virginia . . . You should see June Knight's garters with the little pockets in 'em—mad money garters, she says . . . Bette Davis has her valley home up for sale . . . There's talk in their set that Val Valentinoff and Kaye Crispi have been secretly married for months

Washington Scene

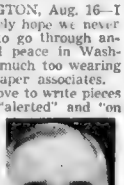
WASHINGTON, Aug. 16—I sincerely hope we never have to go through another delayed peace in Washington. It is much too wearing on my newspaper associates.

Reporters love to write pieces about being "alerted" and "on tenterhooks," but they do not take so kindly to being alerted and tenterhooked themselves. They are apt to get a little short in the temper, if not downright irascible.



President Truman

Also, they tend to become a trifle wacky, or rumor-happy. The recent long wait at the White House for news of Japan's surrender brought out many manifestations.

At the height of the suspense, when news of the capitulation was expected momentarily, a wild-eyed scribe went out on the White House lawn and chased squirrels until he was out of breath. Then he dashed madly into the press room.

"It's come!" he shouted. "Truman has just accepted Japan's ultimatum!"

* * *

THE RAPID SHIFTS from grim tension to cuckooism and back again continued day and night. One reporter, whom I suspect of having his gags written for him by Tennett Cerf, distinguished columnist of the Saturday Review of Literature, burst in with a hot flash.

"I just found out what's holding things up!" he cried. "Hirohito is busy presiding at a shogun wedding!"

* * *

NOVELISTS can write all they like about nerveless and sleepless reporters but it has little basis in fact. Newspapermen do not do so well without proper rest and their nerves—generally speaking—are nothing to boast about, even under ordinary conditions. In fact most of them here are still punchdrunk from V-E Day.

I did not print this at the time because it seemed sort of tragic. But the victim has since recovered and is considered practically normal again; or anyway as normal as usual.

When the flash of Germany's surrender was given out on V-E Day, Mr. Merriman Smith, White House correspondent for one of the major news services, dashed from President Truman's sanctum for a telephone. That is to say, he was heading for a telephone. But in his haste he neglected to observe that a closed door obstructed his path. He attempted to go through the door headfirst, thereby doing little or no good to his noggin.

By the time he remembered that the approved way of going through a door is to open it first he was not what you might call himself. Gaining the rotunda, he caromed off two other hurrying reporters, tripped, and whacked his head against the big carven table, gift to this country by Aguinaldo, the old Philippines' revolutionary.

I do not know how Mr. Smith feels about Aguinaldo and his generosity in sending the table to the White House, but it is a fact that Mr. Smith was out of action with a sore conk for several days.

* * *

AMONG PARTIES responsible for the daffy humor that passed between the scribes waiting for Japan's surrender is Mr. Dan Parker, the noted sports columnist. Mr. Parker was not present at the days of suspense but his column provided a gag that was worked to death.

One reporter after another dashed in, as if bearing hot news, and yelled:

"Flash! Hirsch Jacobs has just filed a claim for Hirohito's white horse!"

THE SUSPENSE at the White House reminds me of the time we were covering the Lilhendahl murder in Hammonton, N. J., in 1927. An elderly physician named Dr. A. William Lilliendahl was murdered while auto riding and the authorities conceived a nasty suspicion that his much younger wife, Margaret, had a hand in it.

This suspicion increased when it was learned Mrs. Lilliendahl had been carrying on barnyard trysts with a neighborhood chicken farmer named Willis Beech. They used a hollow oak tree as a postoffice in which to exchange billets doux, or lettres de cackle, as they are known in poultry-raising circles.

Mrs. Lilliendahl and Mr. Beech were subsequently found guilty of second degree murder and sent to prison. The reason for the peculiar verdict was that the jury had been unable to agree and the second degree was a compromise.

However, a good many other things preceded the verdict, including titillating dissertations by fascinated cops on romance amid the hencoops. There was also the time when photographers kept chasing a youngster, who insisted on getting in front of their cameras, only to discover later he was the young Lilliendahl son they had been seeking to photograph for days.

But the business I wanted to tell you about took place at the Hammonton barracks of the New Jersey State Police. Mrs. Lilliendahl was brought in by chief of county detectives Frank Harrold and turned over to an array of cops and the district attorney for grilling.

The quiz program continued three days and three nights. All that time we were waiting on the hot stove couch. The suspense was awful.

Most of us had stood all we could bear when Bill Farson, of Philadelphia, came rushing out of the barracks. He held up his hand dramatically.

"It won't be long now!" he cried. "The district attorney is cracking!"

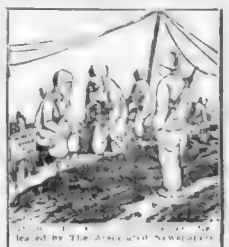
George Holland

Boston After Dark

THE CELEBRATION WAS CONTINUING throughout Surrender Day-plus-one . . . And the likelihood was that tonight would be another El Dorado for the proprietors of the joints, nightclubs, taverns, cafes, restaurants, and hotels . . . The wonderfully nice feature of the day after the "give-up" was that the throngs of merry makers maintained the jovial, friendly mood of the first night of peace . . . So be it!



Ties off by The Associated Newspapers

"This is our rest period . . . We've taxiwan from the Eleventh Armored."

* * *

WE NOW have time to search for talent . . . Lt. (s.g.) Larry Ackard, USNR, of Denver, Colorado, happened to come to our penetrating attention almost immediately . . . He is a likable youngster with a certified gift for writing tunes, both lyrics and music . . . Henry, the smart major domo of the Hasty Pudding Club uncovered Lt. Ackard . . . It may thought that Lt. Ackard should be rewarded for his eternal vigil at the piano of the "Puddin' Club" (as the debs call it) and asked him to write a show for his fellow-officers and his faithful "hostesses" who have made the Hasty Pudding Club less like a YMCA hut of World War I than any comparable institution of World War II.

* * *

THE UPSHOT is that a show will be staged on the tradition-steeped boards of the Puddin' Club next Thursday and Friday nights . . . Lt. Ackard, with the collaboration of Lt. Tony Sharpe, has written a revue called "GI John" . . . It should be an entertaining show. Reflecting the disrespect of the Navy for its opposite number, the USA, a song called "I Have Returned," should be spectacular . . . It sings the praises of Gen Douglas MacArthur . . . Commercially potential hits are Lts. Ackard's and Sharpe's "Send Me Your Picture" and "Hello, Darling" . . . Should the show be a hit, the department could be induced readily to demand an investigation by the Harvard Corporation's overseers . . . For Lt. Ackard is a Princeton man.

* * *

WHATEVER THE FAMOUS Hasty Pudding Club may or may not achieve in the fruity days of peace, the fact remains that more than 12,000 U. S. officers have enjoyed its once-restricted facilities as a haven and an oasis since the inspired day several years ago when the club's directors turned it over as an officers' club to the war effort . . . In these just few years, the "Puddin' Club" accomplished more, perhaps, than any other club or fraternity in America's intercollegiate world . . . Its story rates a volume . . . But [illegible] have been lifted much to recently to report the part which the Hol-Yoke St. (Connecticut College played in the perfection of radar communications and [illegible] the atomic bomb.

* * *

FROM THE HASTY PUDDING club to the Old Howard Theater is a long step . . . But the Old Howard is also [illegible] a Greater Boston institution. Beginning tomorrow the Old Howard will observe its [illegible] year . . . The Hasty's centennial will be celebrated by presenting a lot of luscious strip-tease numbers that are so obviously seductive that this column, for the life of it—can never remember them . . . But when Lily La Vie or Violet Vanderbilt or Dahlia Cream or Whoever They are become as famous as Gypsy Rose Lee, Ann Corio or Margie Hart, then [illegible] will be time [illegible] Lily or Violet or Dahlia to [illegible] this column and hurl it in our blushing face . . . And we send us that they [illegible] themselves first in this column . . . Both Miss Hart and Mrs. Lee swear that THEY DID first!

Sarge Says It!

TUCSON, Ariz., Aug. 16 (AP)—Sgt. Nelson Loveland kept a wisecrack under wraps for 1345 days, and when he finally used it yesterday, a waitress at a near-by airfield's service club couldn't think of a comeback.

The sarge ordered a hamburger and when the waitress told him it was meatless Tuesday, he cracked

"Migosh, you'd think there was a war going on!"

New Dunham Show Coming

With Katherine Dunham its star, "Carib Song," a new musical play presented by George Stanton, will open at the Shubert on Tuesday evening, Sept. 4, for a two-week engagement immediately prior to Broadway.

Most recently Miss Dunham has been cheered from coast to coast for her "Tropical Revue." The impending "Carib Song" is her first stellar role in a major Broadway musical and affords full scope also to her directing genius, for besides being responsible for the choreography, she is co-staging this production with Mary Hunter, who is directing the book.

Avon Long and William Franklin are featured in the large company which includes Mercedes Gilbert, Elsie Georgianna Benjamin, Harriet Jackson, Mabel Sanford Lewis and the expert Dunham troupe.

Romantic Comedy Coming to Wilbur

Guthrie McClintock has announced that he will present "You Touched Me," a romantic comedy by Tennessee Williams and Donald Windham, dramatized from the short short story of the same title by D. H. Lawrence and will open it at the Wilbur on Sept. 10

The cast will include Edmund Gwenn, Montgromery Clift, Catherine Willard and Marianne Stewart. Mr. McClintock will direct and Motley will do the settings.

Petain Imprisoned In French Pyrenees

PARIS, Aug. 16 (INS)—Jean Lemaire, defense attorney for Marshal Petain, revealed today the aged "hero of Verdun" had been confined in Portalet fortress in the French Pyrenees.

It is generally believed Gen. De Gaulle will follow the recommendation of the French Hight Court of Justice and commute Petain's death sentence to life imprisonment.

Elliott Roosevelt Now Brig. Gen., Ret.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late President, was placed on inactive Army duty. He completed the formalities at Governor's Island which enabled him at his own request to revert to inactive military status.

'Guest Wife' Now at Loew's

Claudette Colbert and Don Ameche are starred in "Guest Wife," a zany comedy concerning a lend-lease marital tangle, which opens today at Loew's State and Orpheum.

Richard Foran plays the husband who lends his spouse to his best friend in order to help the latter out of a jam but doesn't foresee the mad complications that will arise when the pseudo-honeymooners are pictured together on the front page of a string of newspapers.

Charles Dingle appears as the millionaire publisher who takes the couple under his wing and insists on their spending the weekend at his palatial estate.

The film was produced by Jack H. Skirball directed by Sam Wood.

Service Men Ask World Series for the Pacific

By JACK CONWAY

SERVICEMEN wish the 1945 World's Series to be played at Army and Navy bases in the Pacific. A campaign to bring about such a result has been started by the editors of Seabee, an official Navy paper.

It would mean that baseball would pass up a chance to make a great deal of money for an opportunity to perform a real service to thousands of men in the armed forces. Editors of Seabee make it quite clear they wish to find out if baseball under Commissioner "Happy" Chandler is sincere in its desire to do something for service men or whether it is merely talking for effect.

"Happy" Chandler

This writer has received a letter from Tom E. Foster, editor of Seabee, and Franklin J. Bills, sports editor, in which they set forth their plan. The letter, which does not pull any punches, is as follows:

"The editors of Seabee magazine feel that we should expend nothing less than our greatest effort in our attempts to persuade the high officials of baseball to make a sincere attempt to play the World Series this fall—yes, the actual World Series—out on different Pacific islands, for the benefit of overseas GIs who are both homesick and baseball hungry.

"A careful consideration of the idea shows that it is not as fantastic as it seems at first thought.

"The purpose of the idea is twofold. First, it is organized baseball's greatest opportunity of all time to prove that its mouthings on behalf of servicemen are really sincere. Try to picture yourself as an Army corporal or a Navy seaman who has been overseas anywhere from one to three years, watching a ball game played for the world championship six or seven thousand miles from home. Would you ever forget that thrill?

"We do not wish to disparage the idea of having the series winner merely play a string of exhibition games on the islands—it is laudable—but speaking from my own experience in watching exhibition games between major league players in the Marianas they are drab and dull and fail completely to arouse much enthusiasm among the men. But a real World Series—after the war baseball could point to a war record unequalled by any other organized sport in any war.

No Travel Worries

"SECONDLY, this plan would make it possible to play the series this fall without the slightest strain on the nation's transit system. And don't forget that redeployment is likely to be at its peak about that time and it is still possible that the ODT may, on this account, forbid the playing of the series statewide.

"Since the Navy Department has already invited the series winner to make a 90-day tour of the Pacific and has agreed to furnish transportation, it is a sure bet the Navy would not fail to provide the same facilities and transport for the teams to play the series.

"The fact that the players would lose out on the not inconsiderble bonus derived from series receipts can also be partly accounted for. It is possible that the series could be sponsored by the USO and the players paid as performers, or the series could be handled as usual, charge the men admission to the games and split the receipts in the usual manner. The players would not net the amount they would get by playing at home, of course, but part of it. And is there a well paid major league ballplayer who would not sacrifice something along this line to accomplish the war's outstanding recreation project for the servicemen? Many of them are discharged veterans—all of them have friends in the service.

"Facilities are already available for series games at Pearl Harbor, Guam and Manila, where there are first class diamonds and stands capable of holding upwards of 30,000 GIs. Facilities in other logical spots such as Okinawa, Saipan and the Admiralty Islands could easily be made ready by October.

"Seabee magazine, service publication for the personnel of the Naval Construction Battalions and mouthpiece for a quarter million Seabees, feels that this idea, if accomplished, would be the greatest overseas recreation project of the war, both for the overseas GIs and for baseball.

"Sincerely we urge your wholehearted effort to place this idea before the public and get it across!"

* * *

Baseball's Position

THE IDEA of the editors of Seabee is a fine one. Baseball could do a great deal of good by accepting it.

Baseball, however, is unlikely to pass up its rich World Series melon for a trip to the Pacific. I am saying this in view of what baseball has done since Pearl Harbor. It has placed its own interests first at all times, and it has always managed to get sufficient aid at Washington to keep going.

The most servicemen can hope for is to see the World Series teams in exhibition games.

At this writing it looks as if the Cubs and Tigers will be the teams to battle in the World Series. With Chicago and Detroit less than 250 miles apart, it is unlikely that the ODT will issue a ban against the series. With peace, there will be less restrictions on many things regardless of what immediate statements are made. America is on the way back to its normal way of living.

Umpire Fired Because He Wanted Pay Raise

By BUS HAM

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—A big league umpire's discharge which he attributed to a squabble about salaries highlighted an otherwise routine opening of the two-day major-minor league baseball meeting yesterday.

Ernest Stewart, 35, youngest member of the American League umpiring staff, reported that he has been "fired" by Will Harridge, league president.

Will Harridge

Stewart, former University of Southern California athlete in his fifth year of big league officiating, told a reporter that Harridge said he caused dissension and was disloyal to some other umpires and the league.

This he denied, and said that his discharge resulted from his interest in trying to obtain higher salaries for umpires.

Stewart's disclosure was separate from two long sessions by the game's post-war planning committee.

No formal action was taken but it was learned that returning war veterans probably will be eligible for the World Series or any other post-season baseball play.

The officials apparently were confident that the Office of Defense Transportation will soon sufficiently relax travel restrictions on tentatively-scheduled sports events to permit the World Series to be held.

Also up for discussion were such questions as to what to do about the growing practice of signing teen-age players, giving the game back to the youngsters, reviving minor leagues which stopped play during the war and organizing many new small leagues.

Stewart said of his discharge that "this thing ruins my career but I'm going home without being resentful or ashamed of anything that I've done."

Stewart related that during a recent Washington-Detroit doubleheader, he walked into the umpires' dressing room and Commissioner A. B. Chandler and umpires Art Passarella and Hal Weafer were talking about salaries.

CHANDLER HAD FACTS

Chandler, Stewart said, remarked that "if there is anything that you've got on your mind about helping the umpires," he would like to know it.

At Chandler's suggestion, Stewart said, he asked other umpires "what salaries they think they are entitled to."

Later, he reported to Chandler, Harridge "found out about this, it made him mad, and he fired me."

"The idea of asking for more money did not originate with me," Stewart said. "Every umpire in baseball has been talking about such things."

Stewart said that if he "couldn't talk about a raise with Chandler, baseball's big boss, who could he discuss such matters with?"

Harridge later said that "if that's the way Mr. Stewart prefers to have the story got out, that's perfect with me. We may have something to say on that later."

Chandler, with whom Stewart conferred before the joint baseball meeting, told the umpire that the case was "something that Harridge would have to decide under baseball rules."

Later, Chandler told a reporter that he understood Stewart "resigned."

Stewart planned no further action, he said.

He pointed out that Bill McGowan, veteran of 21 years of big league umpiring, draws $9000 a year, "has not had a raise in six years," and is the league's highest-paid arbiter.

Such umpires as George Pipgras, Eddie Rommel, Bill Grieves and Joe Rue, in the league for eight years, make $6,000 a year, he said, and were raised to that figure for this season from $5,000. Stewart's salary was $5,500 for 1945. Umpires receive $1,250 each for road expenses.

Ferriss May Arrest Red Sox Tailspin

By HUCK FINNEGAN

CHICAGO, Aug. 16—Once again it's up to Dave Ferriss. Beaten five games running and 13 times in 17 games on this trip, the Red Sox send their 19-game winner against the White Sox tonight in an effort to end their tailspin.

Ferriss has had grand success against the White Sox all season. In 36 innings they have scored only four runs off him and have yet to beat him. He shut them out 2-0 on four hits, 7-0 on one hit, beat them 6-2 and the only time they gave him a battle (June 29 out here) he blasted a two-run homer in the ninth and won 4 to 2.

Dave Ferriss

"He's a great pitcher and a great kid," said Chisox Manager Dykes today. "You'll never have an extended losing streak with him around."

The Red Sox haven't won a ball game since Ferriss beat Cleveland 7-1 last Sunday. And they won't even win behind Ferriss unless they show more punch at the plate. They were shut out twice in Cleveland on three-hitters by Smith and Bagby.

They scored one run off Dietrich in the first game of the midweek double-header here (5-1), and were blanked again by Grove (11-0) in the nightcap. Thus, in their last four games they have scored just one run. Seems as if Ferriss will have to bat in his own runs to win, and he'll have difficulty fathoming southpaw Thorny Lee of the White Sox. Lee beat them 5-3 in Boston a few weeks back when they were hitting far more lustily than they are today.

One month ago today . . . on Monday July 16, Detroit was leading the A. L., Washington was second 1½ games behind, the Red Sox third 2½ games behind. Now take a peek at today's standings.

One month ago yesterday . . . on Sunday, July 15, Eddie Lake belted his eighth home run of the season off Cleveland's Harder. Eddie was a rip-roaring shortstop at the time. He not only hasn't made a home run since but his fielding on this trip has been ragged. In 17 games (Washington, Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago) Eddie has erred 11 times. Some of them hurt a lot but none quite so much as in the Woods-Dietrich duel. Score 1-1 in seventh, one out, Moses on third, Schalk on first. Dickshot hit perfect double play ball to short which scooted through Lake's legs. Result: four-run inning and Woods was chased. In the nightcap he kicked an easy roller by Michaels. His throwing, too, has been off the mark. How in the world can a fellow be so brilliant one month and so erratic the next?

O'Neill . . . started against Senators Aug. 3, chased in fourth. Sox lose 7-3 . . . started against Tigers Aug. 9, chased in third. Sox lose 11-5 . . . started against White Sox Aug. 15. "You'll finish this one," warned Cronin. O'Neill did. Result: Chicago 11, Boston 0. It was O'Neill's third loss in his last three starts. And remember the Sunday he hurled a two-hitter against the White Sox following Ferriss' one-hitter? How does a pitcher slip so badly?

Red Barrett has rejoined the Sox but isn't quite himself . . . Scout Fred Hunter is here. Perhaps we'll see some new faces.

Majors May Play Series in Tokyo

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—It's probably "on to Toky" for baseball's major leaguers.

Warren Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, suggested today as the game's bigwigs went into the second day of a major-minor meeting, that it would be a good idea for big leaguers to play in the Japanese capital on their contemplated Pacific tour.

Babe Ruth led a group of American diamond stars to Tokyo about 20 years ago, and the Japanese, fond of baseball, long considered Ruth just about the greatest thing that ever crossed the waters.

Secretary of Navy Forrestal and Adm. Chester W. Nimitz recently invited the big leagues to send the World Series winner on a 90-day tour of advanced Pacific bases. Japan's surrender is not expected to make any change in these plans.

There could be no more advanced base than Tokyo, Giles said.

The big leagues played the principal parts in yesterday's lengthy opening sessions. They cleared the way for returning war veterans to play in the World Series, pending approval by various leagues of this recommendation. Such action is considered a mere formality.

The recommendation also applies to the minor leagues for the little World Series and Shaughnessy playoffs.

If a player returns any time during September, he can participate in the World Series. The normal deadline for establishing such eligibility is Aug. 31.

No limit was placed on the number of veterans that each club may use in the big series. This waives the old 25-player limit, insofar as servicemen are concerned.

The officials again expressed determination that veterans shall return to baseball on the same basis they left it, plus any advantages they might have gained had they not entered the armed forces.

Today, the minor leagues will get down to their personal problem of reviving minor leagues which were discontinued during war time.

The minors had 42 leagues in operation in 1942 against only 10 this year. Next season they hope to build back to their figure of three years ago. Many of the 7000 to 8000 ballplayers now in service will be civilians by then.

Separate from yesterday's routine discussions, Ernest Stewart, youngest American League umpire, disclosed that he has been "fired" by Will Harridge, league president. Rarely if ever before has a big league umpire been dismissed during the season.

Stewart, 35, and a former University of Southern California athlete in his fifth year of big league umpiring, told a reporter that Harridge contended he had caused dissension and was disloyal to some other umpires and the league.

The reason for his dismissal, Stewart said, revolved about his interest in trying to obtain higher salaries for umpires.

Said Harridge: "If that's the way Mr. Stewart prefers to have the story go out, that's perfect with me."

Navy Yard and Caseys Tangle

Winning a close 1 to 0 ball game in the last of the ninth when pinch hitter Ed Barry came through with a game-winning single, the Navy Yard A. A. and the Dick Casey Club of Dorchester are tied up once again with three wins a-piece in the Series A. Park League Playoff match.

Tonight's crucial game between the two clubs will be the last of the series and from all indications it will be one of the best seen in the local circuit in many a moon. Joe Callahan, the former Braves twirler, will take the hill for the Navy Yard against Charlie Bird, considered one of the best semi-pro pitchers in New England, when the clubs clash at the Dorchester Town Field at 6 p. m. tonight.

The most surprising team in the league, the Roslindale Town Team, turned the tables again last night when they walloped the fast Linehan Club of South Boston by a 5 to 0 score to go ahead by one game in their best two-out-of-three Series B-C match.

The Roslindalers and the Linehan Club battle again at Fallon Field in Roslindale.
